"Oklahoma" in Wisconsin For Junior Promenade

On May 11, 185 couples, students, alumni, and faculty danced to the music of Wright and his band at the annual Junior Promenade in the Lincoln field house, which was decorated according to the theme, "Oklahoma."

On the stage behind a birch railing, was an authentic "Surrey With the Fringe On Top," with a paper maiche horse, which was tied to a fence post. A romantic yellow moon and stars looked down on the scene.

King Bob Mader and his queen, Maureen Bender, entered from each side of the stage, and proceeded down the short stairway under a high birch log gateway onto the dance floor to lead the grand march at 9:30.

Next in line to the king and queen in the royal procession were Dick Corey, president of the senior class, and Isabel Wirtz. They were followed by Don Sprise, chairman of decorations, with Sue Severance; Ronald Nash, senior class treasurer, and Laniece Koukalek, senior class vice-president; Ken Mask, junior vice-president, and Grace Berg; Dolores Tenpas, senior class secretary and her escort Francis Daly; Bob Hierl, junior class secretary, and his partner, Margaret Brayback; Phyllis Peterson, junior class treasurer and chairman of invitations, and her escort, Bill Peterson; Denise Simonis, chairman of programs, and her escort, Bill Edwards; and LaVerne Boyles, chairman of refreshments, and John Seehafer.

A birch fence around the dance floor transposed it into a corral and large murals were hung on the sides depicting various hits from the stage production such as "I Can't Say No," "People Will Say We're in Love," "Pore Jud," "Oh, What a Beautiful Morning," and others.

"Oklahoma" in large birch-painted letters was placed over the orchestra on the backdrop with large figured cowboy and lady on either side. The orchestra was enclosed in a birch fence similar to that around the dance floor.

Punch was served by girls in appropriate costume, from the red-

A SENIOR ADVISER SPEAKS TO THE SENIOR STUDENTS

In a few short weeks, a group of young people now known to us as senior students in high school will step forth from the planned and organized training, called the public school, into a realm of unforeseen experiences, called life.

Today you are called "senior" students; yet you are, in life, only beginners, and as long as life shall be yours, so long will you continue to be students.

During the twelve years you have spent in the primary and secondary schools that your community has made available to you, you have been getting an education. John Dewey has said, "The aim of education is to enable a man to continue his learning." When you cease to learn, you cease to live. Life is not a static thing, it is ever moving along, and the important thing is, in what direction are you moving in it.

The goal toward which you move is often called success. In your strife to attain it, let your aims be high and in the achievement of it, there will come to you a feeling of satisfaction of a task well done. Success does not just happen, it is not the result of mere luck, it follows effort well expended. As has been so well said it "consists of ten per cent inspiration and ninety per cent perspiration."

Nor should your efforts be for self alone. He succeeds most who serves best. What you do for yourself alone dies with you, what you do for others remains and is immortal.

As you members of the Senior

Seniors Contribute Much To Lincoln High Music

Many of the outstanding members of band, orchestra, and the vocal departments are seniors this year, which means we are going to be without some fine leaders next year.

Wayne Williams, president of Gamma Sigma and a member of the Swing Shifters, is one of them. Bob Brenner has done a fine job on the piano and clarinet, and was also an active member of Gamma Sigma. Audrey Steiner's first violinist of orchestra and treasurer of Gamma Sigma; Robert Kingdon, first flutist and Marion Clapp, first cellist are both in Gamma Sigma. Myrtle Timm has been a great help in so generously accompanying soloists. She was pianist for the Swing Shifters, belongs to Gamma Sigma and plays French horn. Bob Manske plays cello and belongs to a string trio. "Rosie" Becker is the drum majorette and Ellen Wagner a twirler. Dana Norman has been president of the dance band this year. He and Dick Babcock have been taking good care of the drum section.

Senior members leaving band and orchestra are: Bob Krause, Gordon Raasch, Gael Whitcomb, Richard Corey, Russell Stibbe, Rosemary Stoker, Walter Hamelink, Alice Molepski, Audrey Steiner, Bob Manske, Marion Clapp, Bob Brenner, Wayne Williams, Myrtle Timm, Dick Babcock, Dana Norman, Rosemary Becker, Robert Kingdon, and Ellen Wagner.

By STEVE HILL

Before going any further, please take a careful squint at the by-line heading this article. It is there, not because the author is so dumb as to believe that anyone's education would not be complete if he didn't know who writes this column, but so that the people — who wish to protest about things appearing herein — will know to whom to protest. In the past people were going around protesting to the first staff member they saw. While this was all right for a while, too many staff members went insane, and so, the by-line.

Rumor has it that eighth grade coach Facklam saw a tall fellow tossing a shot up in the air and catching it. Upon seeing this, Coach F., with the touch of a prophet, remarked that the fellow ought to make a pretty good basketball player if he went out. Later on he found out that this prospect was none other than Elroy Hirsch, the Wausau ace of a few years back.

Overheard before the prom:

1st boy: Are you going to ask — to the prom, you know she can't dance very well, don't you?

2nd boy: Oh yes, I know that, but brother, can she intermission.

In the Wisconsin Rapids Tribune of May 12, the author of the prom article used about an inch of type telling what queen Maureen wore to the prom, but failed to make note of King Robert's garments. From reading the article, (although it is highly unlikely) one might get the opinion that Sticks came in his basketball uniform. To correct this mistaken outlook comes the following: From my vantage point, which was high in the west balcony, I could plainly see that Bob had on one coat, one shirt, one tie, one pair of trousers, one pair of shoes, one pair of socks, and, it is logical to assume, one pair of something else.

If the participants in the prom had half as much fun as they counted on having, they certainly got their money's worth. Several usually well behaved students in the fifth hour French class acted so strangely that a casual observer might have thought (that is if he did not know better) that they were slightly stewed (i.e. intoxicated, for the benefit of the intellectuals in the group.) I was afraid for a little while that all the girls in school were going to wear dishtowels around their heads forevermore, but thank heavens I later found to my great relief, that this was only a part of the mystifying pre-prom ritual.

Suggested theme songs: Emma Siewert, Oh, Johnny; Dick Corey, Issy is or Issy Ain't My Baby?

Just to please everybody, we are at this point including an example of a figure of speech, so that the English teachers in the audience can have something to entertain their classes with the closing weeks of school. Example: Senor Sam Soe's son seems certain to cinch seizing the first letter given to any freshman in many years. Hint to students: It wouldn't be fair to tell you which figure of speech this is, but its first letter is alliteration.

Even though old Sol has failed to shine down on our fair school as much as he might have this spring, it seems as though the girls or the institution are trying to prove the saying that high school girls and golfers are alike in that they both try to go around in as little as possible.

To close this column for the year, I would like to award to the most honorable editor, John Thomas Van Dreese, the distinguished honor of being the person in his class least likely to succeed in grand opera. Mr. Van Dreese has earned this coveted selection, mostly because of his singing(?) in the senior class play, Junior Miss.

The programs were pokebonnets and sombreros silhouetted against a gray background to blend with the pastel shades of the formals.

The following people worked on the decorations committee: Donald Sprise, chairman, Cliff Thompson, Phyllis Koss, Jill Severance, Don Vanderhei, Joan Staub, Isabel Wirtz, Audrey Chiswell, Earl Garber, Jean Gross, Nona Binnebose, Douglas Tenpas, Ken Mask, Bill Yeager, Bill Arnold, Emily Westphal, Joan Kersten, Denise Simonis, June Link, Joan Klawitter, Ken Christianson and Dave Barrette.

Maureen Bender, Bernadine Speltz, Harlan Henke, and Darl Marvin worked on the program committee, with Denise Simonis as chairman.

Phyllis Peterson was chairman of the invitations, with Pat Duckart, Naomi Krohn and June Link as helpers.

Refreshments were managed by La Verne Boyles, chairman, Jean Christianson, Jim Le Roux, and Richard Bain.

The chaperons for this gala affair were: Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Ritchay, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Smith, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Bender, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Garber, and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Sprise.

The faculty adviser was Miss Frances Nairn.

*The air is warm,
The sun is high.
Our victory cheers
Now rend the sky.*

*Yet victory now
Is one half won.
The greatest battle
Is not begun.*

*The yellow man,
With ruthless hate,
Keeps crushing on
Against all fate.*

*To kill, to plunder,
Crush and spur
To certain death,
And hell's fire sure.*

*And we, his subject,
Of hate and spite
Have no alternative
But to fight,*

*Until the day,
With mighty roar.
The dragon drops
To fight no more.*

*When that day comes,
And only then,
Shall I rejoice
The great war's end.*

This is the reaction of a Junior boy to V-E Day.

BAND ENTERTAINS STUDENT BODY

Who said they couldn't swing it? Our band really showed us that they had it in them the other day when they played for us in assembly. They thrilled us with some snappy marches, gave us all the vitamins we were lacking from A-Z in their vegetable selections, and set everyone's foot going to the rhythms of "Boogy Woogy." Earl Garber, and Bob Brenner appeared as soloists and a cornet trio made up of Earl Garber, Paul Roach, and James Le Roux also played. Donald Love was the announcer. After about the first 20 measures of Bob's solo someone in back of me stated seriously, "Isn't it a shame that had to happen?"

TO THE CLASS OF '45

The illustrious class of '45! Who has not heard mention of the eventful life of our class, and its activities? From our high school infancy our aim has always been to reach higher, and we have succeeded to such a degree that we now stand as Seniors, ready to enter into the world of reality, armed against the buffets of life with our high school education.

In 1942, our three hundred odd freshmen came into the limelight as all freshmen do, by dint of their ignorance and size. In the face of the upper classmen "Uppishness" we proceeded to elect class officers: president, Harry Nelson, vice-president, James Fritz; secretary, Kathleen Roets; treasurer, Maurice Petta. Our initiative was unsurpassed. Consequently we were represented in many of the clubs, and did our share to deserve the title of "Lincoln Students". Our first party was an event in our young lives.

When 1943, our sophomore year rolled 'round, we were sophisticated and wise in the way of the Lincolmites. Our representatives that year were: president, Harry Nelson; vice-president, Dana Norman; secretary, Dick Turbin; treasurer, Bob Schuetz. Even though we were still considered as "babies" we boosted and supported any activities which needed us — and there were some!

As Juniors, we wended our way serenely as might the dignified seniors. We tilted our noses high in the air; we joined in as heartily in any activities; and played as many pranks as permissible. When election of officers was held we selected: president, Rita King, vice-president, Marion Clapp; secretary, Tom Billmeyer; treasurer, Bob Kingdon.

And now we come to the end of our high school course, and we are sad enough for we dislike to leave the high school where we have lived, loved, and laughed. We have been a willing and capable class, no one can gainsay that we were ready to work, ready to play, with full representation in all lines of high school activity. Our senior officers are: president, Dick Corey; vice-president, Laniece Koukalek; secretary, Delores Tenpas; treasurer, Rolland Nash.

We have changed much. We have become more serious than in our first years of high school, less mischievous, less flippant. We bear our troubles stoically, and strive always to maintain high standards.

As we leave our high school, where so many happy remembrances linger; we bequeath to those who follow us, our blessings, our joys and woes, as the model class of '45.

MISS FORSTER REVIEWS

"JUNIOR MISS"

The production of "Junior Miss" found a highly responsive audience on its initial performance in Wisconsin Rapids. Its light, scintillating comedy evoked sympathetic chuckles from the long-suffering parents and the very young "Problem children" in the audience.

The selection of the play was inspirational on the part of the director and the senior class, as it was no strain upon the imagination to project oneself into a similar family situation of the comic everyday happenings of the average American home.

Jackie Hein, playing Judy Graves, the Junior Miss, gave a delightful portrayal of the typical adolescent who suffers the pangs of "Growing up." Torn between the desire for her first pair of high heels and a new Christmas doll, Jackie gave a convincing performance of those difficult years.

Duane Smith revealed very little of the amateur in his difficult role as a parent of two lively daughters. Skilfully, Duane played Harry Graves who exhibited at times admirable restraint in the handling of his children and family problems, but at other times showed the complete exasperation at the antics of his family. Grace Graves, brought to life by Mary Warsinske, was done with considerable polish and sympathetic understanding.

Rita King, the other daughter, Lois Graves, handled her part and her numerous swains: Merrill Feurbach (Wayne Williams), Sterling Brown (Robert Brenner), Albert Kunody (Ben Eron), Tommy Arbuckle (Orville Barton), and Charles (Robert Miller) with considerable finesse. Each of these boys in turn did his distinctly character role with such success that the audience looked forward with anticipation to his appearance.

One of the outstanding performances of this production was given by Marjorie Rockwood who portrayed the tough and active Fuffy Adams, young Judy's "bosom" friend. Fuffy's slang and her inimitable manner were good for many of the best laughs in "Junior Miss." With the able assistance of Robert Kingdon, the man in Judy's life, and Elmer Habeck as her brother, Marge was the instigator of one of the most delightful scenes in the play, i.e. fixing up a date for Judy. Not to be minimized in the expert handling of difficult roles by Sue Severance as Ellen Curtis, Jerry Rowland, Sue's blustering father, and Don Murgatroyd, the blacksheep uncle of the Graves family.

Senior Honor Students

Second row: Dana Norman, Rita King, Rose Mary Becker, Marian Clapp, Myrtle Timm, Shirley Kennedy, Irene Lyons, Joan Brockman, Barbara Lake.

First row: Eleanor Brown, Blanche Busch, Mary Ellen Bennett, Agnes Soworski, Kathleen Roets, Joyce Habeck, Joyce Haza, S. Severance.

NEW OFFICERS ELECTED

FOR GAMMA SIGMA

The members of Gamma Sigma held election of officers during a previous meeting. The results are as follows. Don Sprise, president; Earl Garber, vice-president; Bernie Speltz, secretary; Phyllis Koss, treasurer. The new officers will take over at the first meeting next year.

The Band, Orchestra, Girls Glee Club, and Choir will elect officers at the beginning of the new school year.

A BACK STAGE FLASH
FROM "JUNIOR MISS"

When left handed Smitty proceeded to answer the telephone with his left hand, which was his upstage hand, Mr. McDougall tried to tell him that he couldn't do this, that he should use his back stage hand. Smitty came out with "It's no use, Mr. McDougall, I can't hear with that hand."

At another time a certain character by the name of Don Murgatroyd was found on the floor with Sue S. on his lap. They said it was an accident. What a misfortunate accident!! All Don had to say was that he had a stiff neck!

Two supporting roles portrayed by Tom Van Dreese, the singing messenger boy, and Rosemary Becker, the typical wartime maid, Hilda, were given as much attention as the major roles in the play.

On the whole the cast did expertly a play which depended largely upon rapid action and repartee. Done by a less versatile cast the play might have lost the essential subtle humor upon which the success of this popular comedy rested.

RULE FOR LIVING

Do all the good you can,
By all the means you can,
In all the ways you can,
In all the places you can,
At all the times you can,
To all the people you can,
As long as you ever can.

Walter Hamelink, and Tom Du Pree, who is president of the choir. Jackie Hein is a member of Gamma Sigma and the girls senior trio. The other two members of the trio are Doris Kell and Marjorie Rockwood. Marjorie is a member of Gamma Sigma and this last year she appeared as soloist with the Swing Shifters.

Members of Girls Glee Club who do not belong to choir are: Dorothy Latourelle, Betty Thiebert, and Shirley Kennedy.

A majority of the above named have appeared in school assemblies and have done solo work for local organizations. Keep up the good work, underclassmen, so we can fill these vacancies.

OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS ONCE

Have you made out your program of study for the year of 1945-46? If you haven't and even if you have, this may interest you.

The faculty of Lincoln High is offering four new courses which may interest many of the students.

Mr. Hornigold is offering a new course in conservation. This will be for all senior and junior boys.

Mr. Hornigold will also offer three new divisions in chemistry. The first division is nursing. The students interested in nurses training, dietetics, home economics, and laboratory technician will find this the ideal foundation for their future use. The course is divided into three new divisions in chemistry and biochemistry.

The second division is college preparatory course recommended for those who intend to enter the following professions: Medicine, forestry, engineering, law, and for students entering college. The course aims to give an understanding of facts, principles, laws, theoretical phenomena upon which this science is built.

The third division is the general division. It is for those students who will not enter college or nursing schools. It contains less material in balanced equations and problems less theoretical and lab work. The following items are things the average citizen should know and will include chemistry in ten general divisions:

1. Material World
2. Chemistry and food
3. Clothing
4. Cosmetics
5. Dyes
6. Disease
7. Drugs and Medicine
8. Gardening
9. Building Materials
10. Industry

The third new course in Electronics under the direction of Mr. Samuelson. It is a course in which boys that are radio, air, and science minded will find interesting as well as helpful.

Another subject offered to all seniors is the college preparatory English under the supervision of Miss Ritchie. It has been offered as a regular course and will continue as such. It is a course helpful to all students going to any higher field on education.

If enough students are interested, a course in journalism will be offered for those interested in study in that field and work on the school paper.

So why don't you think these new courses over during the remaining week of school and during the summer and in the fall, and be ready to select the course that will help you most in the field of study you are now following.

MANY SENIOR TRACK STARS GRADUATE

The 1945 track season is over. Don Murgatroyd, Russell Stibbe, and "Foozy" Manske, who set Wisconsin Valley records in the pole vault, half-mile, and mile respectively, will graduate. Tom DuPree, Corey, Rowland, H. Nelson, D. Nelson, Brenner, Barton, and Peterson will also graduate. These seniors defeated the underclassmen in a dual meet earlier in the year very easily. In addition, Darrel Dawe, who has been outstanding for the Rapids in the high jump and hurdles, will move to Eau Claire this summer. These positions will be hard to fill next year.

MADISON WEST MEET

Don Murgatroyd won the only first for the Red Raiders in the Madison West meet. The Red Raiders finished eighth in the Madison West invitational track and field meet. Don soared eleven feet, seven and one-half inches to break his own record. The rest of the Rapids' points were scored in a second in the half mile relay, a third in the two mile relay, a third in the distance and sprint medleys, and a tie for fourth in the high jump for a total of 29 4/5 points. Madison East was first with 40 2/5 points.

ARE THEY PROGRESSING?

In the course of the last month, several shorthand award tests were given to the Shorthand IV class. The students receiving the 80-word award are Joyce Neitzel and Marie Kehrberg. The following students received the 120-word award: Rose Marie Becker, Eleanor Braun, Blanche Busch, Shirley Kennedy, Cynthia Peterson, and Joyce Habbeck.

The 120-word is the highest award reached so far this year by any of the students. Of course, they are very anxious to obtain the 140-word award, but have their doubts about accomplishing it.

DELTA THETA SIGMA MEMBERS ENJOY DINNER

On Thursday, May 17, 38 members of Delta Theta Sigma, Lincoln high school's Geography Club, enjoyed a chicken dinner at the Paper Inn at Port Edwards. The group was especially privileged to hear Martin Lipke speak on Wisconsin Indians. Guests of the club at their dinner were Principal Ritchay and Superintendent Smith, who is an honorary adviser of the club. Although it got a late start this year, the club has plans to forge ahead in years to come. The president of the club, in this most formative year, has been Ken Christianson. Mr. Specht has acted as adviser.

20 TRAVEL TO POINT FOR GAA PLAY DAY

On Saturday, May 12, Miss Cobleigh and twenty GAA girls went to Stevens Point by bus for the "GAA Play Day" held at the Stevens Point C.S.T.C. by the W.A.A.

At 9:30 registration was held. Each girl was put on a country team. The theme of the day was "Allied Nations." There were six teams, United States, Holland, England, Brazil, Ireland, and Scotland. At 10:00 a general assembly was held and at 10:15 the play periods started. Because of inclement weather, the activities had to be held indoors. There were three periods: volleyball, basketball, and obstacle races.

At 12:30, a banquet was held in Nelson Hall. A program was given after the banquet. Miss Stanley, faculty adviser of WAA, gave a brief history of sports. A musical reading was given and "Brazil," "Peggy O'Neil," and "China Figure" were sung. Jackie Hein represented Rapids with vocal selections for the entertainment at noon. Each table favored the group with several clever ditties.

After the banquet, a tour of the campus was made and then the third play period was held and at 3:20, lunch was served. After this the girls enjoyed social dancing. The schools represented were Wisconsin Rapids, Stevens Point, Marshfield, and Medford, and Wild Rose.

The girls making the trip were Rosie Becker, Marian Clapp, Kathleen Roets, Cynthia Peterson, Ellen Wagner, Joyce Freeman, Audrey Steiner, Jennie Durkee, Catherine Mullenix, Darlene Langlois, Pat Newman, Margaret Thirkill, Jill Severance, Denise Simonis, Joan Rasmussen, Barbara Bury, Marg McGraw, Donna Farris, Jackie Hein, and Bette Davis.

60-WORD SHORTHAND AWARD GIVEN

The best work was done by Denise Simonis, Helen Kroll, Joyce

GIRL ATHLETES ELECT NEW OFFICERS

GAA held a picnic on Thursday, May 17, at Lake Wazeecha. Most of the girls biked out while the more fortunate rode in cars. The new officers and heads of sports were presented with gifts by their predecessors. The officers are Darlene Langlois, president; Denise Simonis, vice-president; Leila Henke, secretary; Tessie Baer, treasurer; and Kay Westphal, point secretary. The heads of sports are: archery, Jean Gross; ping pong, Lou Ellyn Siewert; hockey, Delores Newman; hit pin, Audrey Chiswell; volleyball, Pat Duckart; basketball, Margaret Thirkill; tumbling, Lois Jacobs; badminton, Joan Kersten; tennis, Denise Simonis; and baseball, Gloria McGraw.

A baseball game between the juniors and seniors highlighted the activities. After this, dancing was enjoyed by everyone.

The results of the ping pong tournament are as follows: In the senior division, Darlene Langlois is champion with Ellen Wagner as runner-up. In the junior division, Marge Gunther, Helen Gazeley, and Pat Bronson tied, and, in the play off, Marge Gunther emerged victorious.

GOLF — A NEW SPORTS PROGRAM

Since early spring, Coach Klandrud has been giving instructions in golf for all who were interested. Later, he held a series of eliminations from which to choose a five-man golf team. The results for three rounds were as follows: Joe Marceau, 132; Everett Henke, 136; Bob Casper, 145; Dana Norman, 147; and Jerry Casey, 150.

This team entered in the annual Wisconsin Valley golf meet. The other entrants were Wausau and Stevens Point. In this meet, Wausau took first place with 509 strokes; Wisconsin Rapids second with 530; and Stevens Point third with 589. The Wausau team received a trophy for winning first place. The individual scores for the Rapids team in these two rounds were as follows: Everett Henke, 100; Joe Marceau, 101; Dana Norman, 105; Bob Casper, 106; and Jerry Casey, 118. We hope that this is the beginning of a fine, new sport.

Dhein and Joan Klawitter, who transcribed the 300 words with only one mistake. Elaine Vanderhei, Dorothy Bean, Joyce Hanneman, Bernadine Speltz and Isla Clussman transcribed the 300 words with only two mistakes.

BOYS' NOON-DAY DANCING CLASS PROVES A SUCCESS

A boys dancing class was started about two weeks before the Junior Prom. A large class of boys came to learn the steps in dancing, under the able direction of Miss Cobleigh. The purpose of this class was to teach the boys to dance so they might know how at the prom. Many of the boys learned how to dance well enough to take that "certain one" to the Prom.

Not only was dancing the object of this noon-day program, but the program proved to be a help to the boys who had no one to go with. Again Miss Cobleigh came through with an idea that she could help the boys find the girls who had no way of going.

We boys want to thank Miss Cobleigh very much for the time she spent with us.
