A GROUP OF WORKERS

INSTRUCTION

The Congregational Bible School is well equipped to give religious and moral instruction to all grades of students. The teaching force we believe is second to none, and although the school is somewhat overcrowded, the organization and management is such that good results can be realized where students are regular in attendance.

ATTENDANCE

Students will be admitted at any time and their names enrolled, but it is urgently requested that all enrolled shall attend this school with the same regularity that they attend any other school in which they may be enrolled. Those who attend irregularly should be enrolled as visitors.

Visitors are always welcome and are urged to enter and take part in class work.

GEO. W. HILL, Superintendent, 1908 to 1909

EXPENSE

A small tuition fee should be charged to defray the incidental expense of the school, but this school follows the custom of all similar schools, providing for the expense by a collection at each Sunday session.

This makes the school free to all, but parents are requested to take an interest in the finances of the school, and be ready to assist by voluntary contribution as occasion requires. The returns for the money expended are very large and all parents should take pride in seeing the school well equipped and properly supported.

A WORD TO PARENTS

The same good business methods should be adopted in the management of a Sunday school as are used in any other well regulated school.

Our teachers and officers are working without compensation, and yet they are consistent in attendance upon their duties and are careful in their Sunday work.

This fact places upon you the responsibility of assisting the management of the school in securing regularity of attendance on the part of your own children.

Careless habits grow rapidly and children who are allowed to form the habit of irregularity of attendance where attendance is expected are harmed by it.

Will you not insist that your children who are enrolled in this school, attend as conscientiously as they attend the public school when expected to be there?

Every absent student is missed and our work is hindered by the absence.
