Thanks to Chuck Hinnners for his contribution on marbles and chase. I'd forgotten about "no hunching", cat eyes, marble bags, etc. And I would remind those of you who played with aggression, don't forget about the "steelies". These were ball bearings that were the best "shooters" and would break those glass versions into pieces. I don't recall who introduced them into our gang, but you had to play to win when steelies were involved, you took no prisoners!

With the recent passing of Art Linkletter I thought I'd share another version of kids say the darndest things. My recently turned "5" grand daughter, Kendall, was attending Reading Ranch this past week and told her teacher that she didn't like spelling words like dog, mop, etc. She liked and wanted to spell "jewelry" because that's what her mother loves! The teacher obliged and sure enough Kendall spelled "jewelry" for me when she visited over the weekend. I guess she's very much like her mother, aunt and grandmother.....high maintenance!

I stopped at the car wash after returning from a short trip to Des Moines yesterday. Greg the shoe shine man saw me approaching and yelled out that everyone was trading Mickey Mantle stories and wanted me to share something I'd told him years ago. This was around 1986 or '87 and I was playing in a "mens only" tournament at Los Colinas Sports Club on the Cottonwood Valley Course. We had several volunteers from the "Club Royal" working holes 12 and 13 and it seems that The Mick who was a guest heard about it. When he arrived at 12 he was wearing nothing more than his golf shoes! Needless to say the member and The Mick were never to be seen on the course again. If that wasn't bad enough the staff from Club Royal (Gentlemen's Club) put on a dance clinic in the Mandalay Hotel affiliated with Los Colinas. The problem was that when each dancer finished she would run off stage and directly into the hotel lobby. Unfortunately for our director of golf, who organized this event, there were a number of Dallas' finest "blue hairs" attending an event and they had gathered in the same lobby. Blue hairs and strippers stripped to the literal bone don't mix well. The Director of Golf was fired that afternoon! And The Mick just moved his act to Preston Trail for repeat performances, but always with the excuse that he was obliterated with libations! This brought lots of laughs and reminded me of some WR residents who would have and maybe did pull the same stunts back in our day!!!!
