and responses:

You ask, what's in Budapest? Most famous is the Parliament building that you see in the ads for Viking River Cruises. Those boats dock a mile or so from Parliament. A castle, lots of churches and cathedrals, mosques, a large building used for daily markets and crafts and Hungarian foods, and tons of spices. A full size railroad that is run by children. Places that have hot spring pools in them, I love my hot tubs in MN and CO, am not keen in using the same spas that strangers have used. Boat rides on the Danube. Also sidewalk cafes that always have excellent beers and local foods. That is just a starter in Budapest. We really like visiting the Eastern European countries, and have a few more to see, but in due time I guess. We usually make two trips a year. Was just in Paris this past March. Hoping to return there soon.

Hello from Southwest Florida. Enjoying the rainy season after the long drought. That keeps everything nice and green. I sure am enjoying being here. It's Paradise everyday. And lots of company coming off and on. We've had more company in Florida in the last 4 months then we did the entire 10 years that we lived at the lake and maybe the entire time we lived in Oklahoma which was 27 years. Go figure. I guess this is more of a paradise than where we were before. And I completely agree. I wish everyone a happy summer and a healthy summer. Until the next time keep enjoying life.

Dogs - I decided to write about different attitudes concerning pets. Reno is a dog-friendly city, and it's taken me a while to get used to seeing people bringing dogs (always on a leash) into retail stores. A week ago a friend and I were having lunch in a casual restaurant with a down-home feel, and I was stunned to see a customer eating lunch while holding a small dog on her lap! I couldn't quite believe my eyes. I wonder if this custom is popular in other parts of the country or if it's a Western thing.
